fundamental level before expanded efforts could be made several questions needed to be answered who has done research on this topic and what do the data indicate who is performing research now and what are their capabilities how are other nations addressing this problem and do they have legislative mandates in place is there a general consensus on the topic the members of the working group believed that these questions could be answered by surveying the major participants in the field of interest three principal survey efforts were performed by the working group which collected information on research regulations statutes and analytical laboratories from each of the participating nations in addition to answering these fundamental questions these efforts also fulfilled the major objectives of the entire pilot study the collection analysis and distribution of information on research projects regulations statutes and analytical laboratories were very useful efforts in helping to fill some of the basic knowledge voids
