subversive spirituality links the practice and study of christian spirituality with christian mission it develops a twofold thesis grace spiritual disciplines and mission practices are inseparably linked in the mission of jesus of the early church and of several historical renewal movements as well as in a contemporary field research sample and amidst the collapse of space and time evidenced by our culture s increasingly hurried pace of life more time and space are needed for regular solitary and communal spiritual practices in church mission and leadership structures if christian mission is to transform people and culture in our time this requires a subversion of the collapsed spatial and temporal codes that have infected our christian institutions jensen employs methods and approaches from a variety of academic disciplines to explore both spirituality in terms of space and time and mission in terms of deed and word specifically jensen examines the spirituality and mission of jesus the early church the apostolic fathers origen the devotio moderna the early jesuits david brainerd and several women in 19th century protestant missions he considers the spirituality and mission that have arisen within the postmodern generations born after 1960 based on the theological historical cultural and field analyses of this study a model for spirituality and mission is proposed the model addresses the contemporary collapse of space and time and appears to have widespread applicability to diverse cultures and eras jensen s model is applied to the pluralistic and postmodern milieu of north america with recommendations for spirituality and mission in church mission and educational structures a derivative model for teaching and practicing spirituality and mission in the academy which also has application for non formal leadership development structures is also proposed sean a adams and seth m ehorn have drawn together an exciting range of contributors to evaluate the use of composite citations in early jewish greco roman and early christian authors up through justin martyr the goal is to identify and describe the existence of this phenomenon in both greco roman and jewish literature the introductory essay will help to provide some definitional parameters although the study as a whole will seek to weigh in on this question the contributors seek to address specific issues such as whether the quoting author created the composite text or found it already constructed as such the essays also cover an exploration of the rhetorical and or literary impact of the quotation in its present textual location and the question of whether the intended audiences would have recognised and reverse engineered the composite citation and as a result engage with the original context of each of the component parts in addition to the specific studies professor christopher stanley provides a summary reflection on all of the essays in the volume along with some implications for new testament studies old schools marks out a modernist countertradition the book makes sense of an apparent anachronism in twentieth century literature and cinema a fascination with outmoded paradigmatically pre modern educational forms that persists long after they are displaced in progressive pedagogical theories advocates of progressive education turned against latin in particular the dead language taught through time tested means including memorization recitation copying out and other forms of repetition and recall needed to be updated or eliminated reformers argued so that students could breathe free and become modern achieving a break with convention and constraint yet mcglazer s remarkable book reminds us that progressive education was championed not only by political progressives but also by fascists in italy where it was an object of gramsci s critique building on gramsci s pages on the latin class mcglazer shows how figures in various cultural vanguards from victorian britain to 1970s brazil returned to and reimaged the old school strikingly the works that mcglazer considers valorize this school s outmoded techniques even at their most cumbersome and conventional like the latin class to which they return these works produce constraints that feel limiting but that by virtue of that limitation invite valuable resistance as they turn grammar drills into verse and repetitious lectures into voiceovers they find unlikely resources for critique in the very practices that progressive reformers sought to clear away registering the past s persistence even while they respond to the mounting pressures of modernization writers and filmmakers from pater to joyce to pasolini retain what might look like retrograde attachments to tradition transmission scholastic rites and repetitive forms but the counter progressive pedagogies that they devise repeat the past to increasingly radical effect old schools teaches us that this kind of repetition can enable the change that it might seem to impede
