Who Is the Real Hog? 2013-06 this volume provides a current look at how development of intensive live stock production particularly hogs has affected human health with respect to zoonotic diseases primarily transmitted by food but also by water air and occupational activity while information presented focuses on the development of increasing livestock production in canada examples are given and comparisons are made with other countries denmark taiwan the netherlands and the united states where the levels of livestock production are much more intense and where the industry is more mature Canada is also searching for solutions to enable handling the growing volume of its livestock waste properly lessons learned from the experience of those who have gone before are invaluable and are drawn together in this volume to serve as useful guidance for others in plotting the courses of action possible to avoid serious environmental setbacks and negative human health effects through foodborne illness a significant portion of the text is devoted to a discussion of enteric illness in humans caused by zoonotic pathogens the second chapter deals with survival of pathogens which cause foodborne illness in manure environments an evaluation of the human health hazard likely to occur from the use of manure as fertilizer is important because of the recent trend toward an increase in foodborne illness from the consumption of minimally processed fruits and vegetables that may have been fertilized with animal derived organic materials

Root Hog or Die 2023-05-03 the hog book is one of the most radical works in the annals of classic animal literature this is the definitive work that touched off the whole recent revolution in our hog awareness leading to the ever spreading acceptance of pigs as pets as working partners organ donors movie stars and so many other fresh manifestations of the barely tapped porcine potential the hog book is also a lot of fun

The Smoking Bacon & Hog Cookbook 2016-03-15 in 2014 the national agricultural statistics service nass engaged the national academies of sciences engineering and medicine to convene a planning committee to organize a public workshop for an expert open discussion of their then current livestock models the models had worked well for some time unfortunately beginning in 2013 an epidemic that killed baby pigs broke out in the united states the epidemic was not fully realized until 2014 and spread to many states the result was a decline in hog inventories and pork production that was not predicted by the models nass delayed the workshop until 2019 while it worked to develop models that could help in times both of equilibrium and shock disease or disaster as well as alternative approaches to help detect the onset of a shock the may 15 2019 workshop was consistent with nass's 2014 intention but with a focus on a model that can help predict hog inventories over time including during times of shock this publication summarizes the presentations and discussions from the workshop

Hog Manure Management, the Environment and Human Health 2011-06-28 a dramatic increase over the past fifteen years in domestic pork demand and production in the philippines has created a potentially profitable opportunity for poor rural and agricultural households in southern and central luzon the two biggest markets however smallholder pig producers hold only a minority share of total production compared to larger commercial farms this report seeks to assess the scope for smallholders to remain in business by analyzing the relative profitability of small and large farms using field data from pig producing households the researchers assess the role of internal and external factors in determining a household's participation in production and marketing and examine the combination of technical and allocative efficiency exhibited by specific farms under particular circumstances they conclude that the smallest scale pig producers will not survive market competition and will require alternative occupations many others however could profit from pig production if policy and institutional changes ensure their access to inputs to animal health services that can guarantee output quality and to markets for higher quality output these findings are a valuable contribution to poverty reduction efforts in the philippines
