Notes from the Old Testament

2022-11-03

the end of the millennium sees biblical study in a state of transition the traditional position of historical approaches is widely questioned and historical criticism is regarded as passé there is a search for approaches literary or sociological that are less tied to history on the other hand there is a more radical approach to the history of israel that sees true history as distinct from the biblical narrative and dependent on sources other than the bible biblical narratives thus express not the actual events but the ideological and religious aspirations of writers in much later times ideology has become one of the key words but is used in very divergent ways all this is linked with the intellectual movement known as post modernism some connections between post modernism and theology are suggested by professor barr in the final chapter this book is important because it tries to bring together various threads of these different movements and to state a position from which we may advance into the new millennium

Old Testament Interpretation

scholarship on the uses of the old testament in luke acts has tended to focus upon the role played by the old testament in the development of the author's christology james meek however draws out the theme of the gentile mission in acts as it relates to the old testament and gives particular attention to four texts isa 49 6 15 16 18 amos 9 11 12 2 17 21 joel 3 1 5 mt 3 25 gen 22 18 the quotations in acts 13 and 15 receive greater attention because they explicitly address the issue of the gentile mission the two earlier texts anticipate it and because of particular interpretive questions raised by these texts meek argues that while there are similarities in the quotations in acts with the old greek form of the cited texts the argument never depends on distinctive readings of the old greek he therefore rejects claims that the author's use of old testament texts is dependent entirely on the old greek he also maintains that all four quotations are used in a manner consistent with their sense in their original contexts contrary to the common assertion that the new testament commonly cites old testament texts without regard for original sense or context his third principal argument is that these old testament quotations function as proof from prophecy contrary to the argument of some in particular they are cited to demonstrate the
