well known for his imaginative treatment of environmental issues kevin dann presents a natural history of the lewis creek watershed in vermont's champlain valley told largely through the lives and thought of three individuals whose investigations brought them into close contact with the area congregationalist minister john perry 1825-1872 conducted paleontological research on the region's paleozoic rock and attempted to negotiate his era's confrontation between science and religion rowland robinson 1833

1900 was a quaker farmer and author artist whose historical fiction often dealt with issues of human impact on this watershed the first plant hunting expeditions of another quaker farmer and noted plant collector cyrus pringle 1838 1911 took place in this watershed as well dann s account of these three men whose lives span nearly a century graphically illustrates contemporary human nature relationships at the same time that it suggests the limits of science in circumscribing our experience of the physical landscape the experience of pain and loss is documented along with the stories of success and celebration since as dann writes genuine places like human hearts have dark recesses within them and by examining these recesses within the lewis creek watershed we take a small step toward demythologizing vermont aimer et mourir offers a wide ranging selection of essays that collectively address how from the middle ages to the present the notions of love and death get inextricably associated with the narratives that are women s lives some of the essays tackle male writers representations that link women and in particular women s sexuality with death resulting in the figures of the femme fatale the woman in parturition and the desiring vampire a number of essays reiterate that women's hypersexualized bodies have been used as a social construct and a psychological screen upon which to project a fear of death. The challenges to this partial reduction of woman's domain come from the mostly women writers represented here and they span from Marguerite de Navarre to Amélie Nothomb. These women writers rework the old formulae giving us instead death-defying memories of love, love regenerative of language as of bodies, love forcing the frontiers of death or love creatively redefined within the parameters of death. Nor are these new narratives imagined as belonging to women alone but rather as attesting to a richer, more varied and greatly sensitized human experience.

The escape from Egypt is the pivotal event in the Old Testament through it God gave his people their freedom for forty tumultuous years. God and Moses and a chronically rebellious people suffered and fought and established the foundations of a legal system and a system of ethics that changed the world. The Old Testament reminds us that we must never forget the Exodus or we will forget who we are and as we learn about the Exodus we learn who we are.
