this book is about scientific theories of a particular kind theories of mathematical physics examples of such theories are classical and relativistic particle mechanics classical electrodynamics classical thermodynamics statistical mechanics hydrodynamics and quantum mechanics roughly these are theories in which a certain mathematical structure is employed to make statements about some fragment of the world most of the book is simply an elaboration of this rough characterization of theories of mathematical physics it is argued that each theory of mathematical physics has associated with it a certain characteristic mathematical structure this structure may be used in a variety of ways to make empirical claims about putative applications of the theory typically though not necessarily the way this structure is used in making such claims requires that certain elements in the structure play essentially different roles some play a theoretical role others play a non theoretical role for example in classical particle mechanics mass and force play a theoretical role while position plays a non theoretical role some attention is given to showing how this distinction can be drawn and describing precisely the way in which the theoretical and non theoretical elements function in the claims of the theory an attempt is made to say rather precisely what a theory of mathematical physics is and how you tell one such theory from another what the identity conditions for these theories are please note this is a companion version not the original book sample book insights 1 i was sick enough to be sent to several specialists but no one could find the cause of my pain the doctor finally said my bloodwork came back negative which i found more disappointing than comforting i was then told my symptoms were probably psychosomatic 2 when we feel pain our bodies instinctively pulse to protect themselves and we struggle to do much else as our brains focus their energy and attention on survival we feel less like ourselves and less connected to others when in pain because pain itself prompts a sensation of internal disintegration 3 in the western culture effort produces success with enough foresight and determination we can create a life with minimal pain and maximum pleasure we are proprietors of possibility doorkeepers of our own bright futures 4 the story of our culture is that suffering is the result of individual failure and the loss that compelled you to pick up this book was most likely the result of poor choices but within the bigger story of god and his good loved creation you can find your pain has a place the audacity of driving a horseless carriage from coast to coast in the early years of the 20th century is hard to imagine in an age of superhighways and global positioning systems roads might be nothing more than muddy ruts made by wagon wheels sources of gasoline or replacement parts were few and agonizingly far between frequent repairs and tire changes were necessary and the traveler was subject to the whole range of nature s perils and discomforts for a woman to attempt the trip was at the time a jaw dropping event yet in 1909 22 year old alice ramsey and three female companions piled into a maxwell in new york city and 59 days later they triumphantly rolled into san francisco a few years later silent film star anita king would become the first woman to make the transcontinental drive solo these and other early coast to coast drives proved women s growing independence as well as the automobile s long distance viability detailed accounts of five coast to coast drives make up this lively history drawing from plentiful contemporary newspaper reports and the women s own words author curt mcconnell recounts the bold adventurers experiences day by day and mile by mile
