rubenstein offers a translation from the hebrew of the formation of the babylonian talmud by david weiss halivni halivni s work is widely regarded as the most comprehensive scholarly examination of the processes of composition and editing of the babylonian talmud halivni presents the summation of a lifetime of scholarship and the conclusions of his multivolume talmudic commentary sources and traditions meqorot umesorot arguing against the traditional view that the talmud was composed c 450 ce by the last of the named sages in the talmud the amoraim halivni proposes that its formation took place over a much longer period of time not reaching its final form until about 750 ce the talmud consists of many literary strata or layers with later layers constantly commenting upon and reinterpreting earlier layers the later layers differ qualitatively from the earlier layers and were composed by anonymous sages whom halivni calls stammaim these sages were the true author editors of the talmud who reconstructed the reasons underpinning earlier rulings created the dialectical argumentation characteristic of the talmud and formulated the literary units that make up the talmudic text halivni also discusses the history and development of rabbinic tradition from the mishnah through the post talmud legal codes the types of dialectical analysis found in the different rabbinic works and the roles of reciters transmitters compilers and editors in the composition of the talmud this volume contains an introduction and annotations by jeffrey rubenstein this collection of essays examines the motifs of darkness depression and descent in both literal and figurative manifestations within a variety of anglo saxon texts including the old english consolation of philosophy beowulf guthlac the junius manuscript the wonders of the east and the battle of maldon essays deal with such topics as cosmic emptiness descent into the grave and recurrent grief in their analyses the essays reveal the breadth of this imagery in anglo saxon literature as it is used to describe thought and emotion as well as the limits to knowledge and perception the volume investigates the intersection between the burgeoning interest in trauma studies and darkness and the representation of the mind or of emotional experience within anglo saxon literature this comprehensive and richly illustrated catalogue focuses on the finest illustrated manuscripts produced in europe during the great epoch in flemish illumination during this aesthetically fertile period beginning in 1467 with the reign of the burgundian duke charles the bold and ending in 1561 with the death of the artist simon bening the art of book painting was raised to a new level of sophistication sharing inspiration with the celebrated panel painters of the time illuminators achieved astonishing innovations in the handling of color light texture and space creating a naturalistic style that would dominate tastes throughout europe for nearly a century centering on the notable artists of the period simon marmion the vienna master of mary of burgundy gerard david gerard horenbout bening and others the catalogue examines both devotional and secular manuscript illumination within a broad context the place of illuminators within the visual arts including artistic exchange between book painters and panel painters the role of court patronage and the emergence of personal libraries and the international appeal of the new flemish illumination style contributors to the catalogue include maryan w ainsworth curator of european paintings at the metropolitan museum of art independent scholar catherine reynolds and elizabeth morrison assistant curator of manuscripts at the getty museum illuminating the renaissance is
