agency and violence european perspectives from early modern times to the present day centres on literary cinematic and artistic male and female perpetrators of violence and their discourses this volume takes an interdisciplinary and cross european approach covering french german english and italian case studies from the sixteenth to the twentieth century and allowing for the exploration of recurrent themes the contributions also facilitate an insight into how the arts and media respond to historical turning points which time and again challenge the link between gender agency and violence for individuals and society alike a startling history of the forlorn war between the weather underground and the fbi based on interviews and 30 000 pages of previously unreleased fbi documents in the summer of 1970 and for years after photos of bill ayers bernadine dohrn jeff jones and other members of the weather underground were emblazoned on fbi wanted posters in bad moon rising arthur eckstein details how weather began to engage in serious ideologically driven nationally coordinated political violence and how the fbi attempted to monitor block and capture its members and failed eckstein further shows that the fbi ordered its informants inside students for a democratic society sds to support the faction that became weather during the tumultuous june 1969 sds convention helping to destroy the organization and that the fbi first underestimated weather s seriousness then overestimated its effectiveness and how weather outwitted them eckstein reveals how an obsessed and panicked president nixon and his inner circle sought to bypass a cautious j edgar hoover contributing to the creation of the rogue plumbers unit that eventually led to watergate when women are erased from history what are we left with between 1912 and 1922 ireland experienced sweeping social and political change including the easter rising world war i the irish civil war the fight for irish women s suffrage the founding of the abbey theatre and the passage of the home rule bill in preparation for the centennial of this epic decade the irish government formed a group of experts to oversee the ways in which the country would remember this monumental time unfortunately the group was formed with no attempt at gender balance women and the decade of commemorations edited by oona frawley highlights not only the responsibilities of irish women past and present but it also privileges women s scholarship in an attempt to redress what has been a long standing imbalance for example contributors note the role of the waking the feminists movement which was ignited when in 2016 the abbey theater released its male dominated centenary program they also discuss the importance of addressing missing history and curating memory to correct the historical record when it comes to remembering revolution together the essays in women and the decade of commemorations consider the impact of women s unseen unsung work which has been critically important in shaping ireland a country that continues to struggle with honoring the full role of women today a collection of essays exploring the future of literary studies by focusing on the relationship between literary theory philosophy and cultural studies the essays aim to break the boundaries separating philosophy and literature covers receipts and expenditures of appropriations and other funds this book weaves together three themes at the intersection of jacques lacan and the philosophical tradition the first is the question of time and memory how do these problems call for a revision of lacan s purported ahistoricism and how does the temporality of the subject in lacan intersect with the questions of temporality initiated by heidegger and then developed by contemporary french philosophy the second question concerns the status of the body in lacanian theory especially in connection with emotion and affect which lacanian theory is commonly thought to ignore but which the concept of jouissance was developed to address finally it aims to explore beyond the strict limits of lacanian theory possible points of intersection between psychoanalysis and other domains including questions of race biology and evolutionary theory by stressing the question of affect the book shows how lacan s position cannot be reduced to the structuralist models he nevertheless draws upon and thus how the problem of the body may be understood as a formation that marks the limits of language exploring the anthropological category of race within a broadly evolutionary perspective it shows how lacan s elaboration of the imaginary and the symbolic might allow us to explain human physiological diversity without reducing it to a cultural or linguistic construction or allowing race to remain as a traditional biological category here again the questions of history and temporality are paramount and open the possibility for a genuine dialogue between psychoanalysis and biology finally the book engages literary texts antigone ovid s metamorphoses hamlet and even wordsworth become the muses who oblige psychoanalysis and philosophy to listen once again to the provocations of poetry which always disrupts our familiar notions of time and memory of history and bodily or affective experience and of subjectivity itself spring 2017 edition of mystery tribune magazine is an exciting collection of the short fiction essays book reviews and interviews
