Migrant World Making 2023-12-01

for most migrants developing communication strategies in host countries is vital for finding social connections navigating the pressures of assimilation and maintaining links to their original cultures migrant world making explores this process of constructing a homeplace by creating a network of communication tools and strategies to connect with multiple communities since what it means to be a migrant differs from person to person the contributors to this edited collection showcase numerous practices migrants adopt to communicate and connect with others as they forge their own identities in globalized yet highly nationalistic societies with varying aspirations and motives for seeking new homes migrants build communities by telling stories engaging in social media activism protesting writing scholarly criticism and using many other modes of communication to match this variety the transnational scholars represented here use a wide array of rhetorical cultural and communication methodologies and epistemologies to describe what the experience of migration means to those who have lived it

quilts exemplify precious things comfort through the warmth they provide community since they are often created by groups and love given the time and effort they require with this in mind legions of kindhearted quilters all over the world choose to donate their labors of love to people in need ruth mchaney danner has gathered fifty four heartwarming stories of quilters who make their compassion tangible one stitch square and quilt at a time each story introduces a quilter or group of quilters ranging from a blind woman in texas to preschoolers in australia their gifts have the power to make recipients feel cherished and supported even though they may never meet face to face these wonderfully inspiring stories show that every quilter who has ever wondered but what can i do can do something to reach out and help others

cyrus schayegh s socio spatial history traces how a eurocentric world economy and european imperialism molded the middle east from the mid nineteenth to mid twentieth century building on this case he shows that the making of the modern world is best seen as the reciprocal transformation of cities regions states and global networks

Creating Legal Worlds 2015-07-06

a legal judgment is first and foremost a story a narrative of facts about the parties to the case creating legal worlds is a study of how that narrative operates and how rhetoric story and style function as integral elements of any legal argument through careful analyses of notable cases from canada the united states and the united kingdom greig henderson analyses how the rhetoric of storytelling often carries as much argumentative weight within a judgement as the logic of legal distinctions through their narrative choices henderson argues judges create a normative universe the world of right and wrong within which they make their judgements and fashion their own judicial self images drawing on the work of the law and literature movement creating legal worlds is a convincing argument for paying close attention to the role of story and style in the creation of judicial decisions

Commonsense Constructivism, Or, The Making of World Affairs 2000

introduces the constructivist approach to understanding world affairs the author shows how narrow the standard approaches are and how much we miss as a consequence his conceptual framework for state making self making and mind making seeks to put notions such as globalization in a new light

The Art of World-Making 2017-06-26

on its face the art of world making focuses on honouring the career of nicholas greenwood onuf and his contributions to the study of international relations of equal importance however while using onuf s work as their touchstone the contributions to this volume range widely across ir theory making important interventions in some of the most important topics in the field today the volume considers the place of constructivism and republicanism in the field of international relations and the contestation that accompanies the question of their place in the field asking what explains the dominance of some forms of constructivism and the relative lack of influence of other forms what can rule oriented constructivism the focus here provide our field that other forms of constructivism have been unable to into what new and productive directions can constructivism be taken what are its gaps and what are the resources to remedy those gaps what can republicanism tell us about ongoing issues in international law global governance liberalism and crisis drawing together essays from some of the leading scholars in the field space is given after each chapter for a detailed and highly personal response piece to each contribution written by onuf this unique volume will be essential reading for students and scholars of international relations

Chance Discoveries in Real World Decision Making 2006-09-06

in making the world safe historian julia irwin offers an insightful account of the american red cross from its founding in 1881 by clara barton to its rise as the government's official voluntary aid agency equally important irwin shows that the story of the red cross is simultaneously a story of how americans first began to see foreign aid as a key element in their relations with the world as the american century dawned more and more americans saw the need to engage in world affairs and to make the world a safer place not by military action but through humanitarian aid it was a time perfectly suited for the rise of the arc irwin shows how the early and vigorous support of william h taft who was honorary president of the arc even as he served as president of the united states gave the red cross invaluable connections with the federal government eventually making it the official agency to administer aid both at home and abroad irwin describes how during world war i the arc grew at an explosive rate and extended its relief work for european civilians into a humanitarian undertaking of massive proportions an effort that was also a major propaganda coup irwin also shows how in the interwar years the arc's mission meshed well with presidential diplomatic styles and how with the coming of world war ii the arc once again grew exponentially becoming a powerful part of government efforts to bring aid to war torn parts of the world the belief in the value of foreign aid remains a central pillar of u s foreign relations making the world safe reveals how this belief took hold in america and the role of the american red cross in promoting it
