seminar paper from the year 2012 in the subject history miscellaneous grade a university of cambridge language english abstract contemporary art is now judged as a historical experience commencing from the end of world war ii in 1945 the current crop of artists is contributing their mite to the highly multifaceted and globalized economy of cultural packages the year 1945 was turning point because after the war and the establishment of american superiority the cultural political and economic power shifted partially from europe to the us it was not surprising because the erstwhile european colonialism also waned considerably a new generation of artists has evolved around this time who consistently overturned the existing modernist practices and established new tools for dealing with contemporary art in europe and north america leading to what guy debord described as society of the spectacle which gives prominence to the visual arts which in turn dictate the various cultural practices and in general specify the way people interpret contest or maneuver contemporary life amelia j 2006 assuming that post world war ii contemporary arts is now 60 years old it is indeed a surprise that so much of history has come to pass with such speed and density of events during this short period in world history this has necessitated the need for developing the capabilities of understanding and appreciating the visual arts since 1945 these facts serve as a vital addition to the existing texts on social aesthetic and chronological development of contemporary art most of these surveys concentrated on the euro american art since 1945 with just a little attention to non european american art developments and history amelia j 2006 as art continues to bargain on its affiliation to globalization it wonders what consequences globalization will have on it we also wonder whether art history could go global and if so what it will look like and who would be running the show this subject will need to cover every aspect of space travel national identity and intra cultural impacts of the day amelia j 2006

Paper As Art and Craft; The Complete Book of the History and Processes of the Paper Arts

this book examines the many functions of paper in the fine art and aesthetics of the early twentieth century modernist or historic avant garde expressionism cubism futurism dadaism surrealism constructivism and many more with its many collages and photomontages the historic avant garde is generally considered to have transformed paper from a mere support into an artistic medium and to have assisted in art on paper gaining a firm autonomy bringing together an international team of scholars this book shows that the story of paper in the avant garde has thereby hardly been told the first section looks at a selection of canonized individual avant gardists work on paper to demonstrate that the material and formal analysis of paper in the avant garde s artistic production still holds much in store in the second section chapters zoom in on forms and formats of collective artistic production that deployed paper to move around reproductions of fine art works to facilitate the dialogue between avant gardists to better promote their work among patrons and to make their work available to a wider audience chapters in the third section lay bare how certain groups within the avant garde began to massively create monochrome works because these could be easily reproduced when transferred to or reproduced as linocuts in the last section of the book chapters explore how the avant garde s attentiveness to paper almost always also implied a critique of the ways in which paper and all that it stood for was treated and labored in european culture and society more broadly the book will be of interest to scholars working in art history modernism and design

The possibility of a Global Art History

this book looks at the transformation that art and art history is undergoing through engagement with the digital revolution since its initiation in 1985 chart computers and the history of art has set out to promote interaction between the rapidly developing new information technology and the study and practice of art it has become increasingly clear in recent years that this interaction has led not just to the provision of new tools for the carrying out of existing practices but to the evolution of unprecedented activities and modes of thought this collection of papers represents the variety innovation and richness of significant presentations made at the chart conferences of 2001 and 2002 some show new methods of teaching being employed making clear in particular the huge advantages that it can provide for engaging students in learning and interactive discussion it also shows how much is to be gained from the flexibility of the digital image À or could be gained if the road block of copyright is finally overcome others look at the impact on collections and archives showing exciting ways of using computers to make available information about collections and archives and to provide new accessibility to archives the way such material can now be accessed via the internet has revolutionized the search methods of scholars but it has also made information available to all however the internet is not only about access some papers here show how it also offers the opportunity of exploring the structure of images and dealing with the fascinating possibilities offered by digitisation for visual analysis searching and reconstruction another challenging aspect covered here are the possibilities offered by digital media for new art forms one point that emerges is that digital art is not some discreet practice separated from other art forms it is rather an approach that can involve all manner of association with both other art practices and with other forms of presentation and enquiry demonstrating that we are witnessing a revolution that affects all our activities and not one that simply leads to the establishment of a new discipline to set alongside others how does museum location shape the interpretation of an art object by critics curators art historians and others to what extent is the value of a work of art determined by its location providing a close examination of individual works of american art in relation to gallery and museum location this anthology presents case studies of paintings sculpture photographs and other media that explore these questions about the relationship between location and the prescribed meaning of art it takes an alternate perspective in that it provides in depth analysis of works of art that are less well known than the usual american art suspects and in locations outside of art museums in major urban cultural centers by doing so the contributors to this volume reveal that such a shift in focus yields an expanded and more complex understanding of american art close examinations are given to works located in small and mid sized art museums throughout the united states museums that generally do not benefit from the resources afforded by more powerful cultural establishments such as the museum of modern art and the metropolitan museum of art in new york works of art located at institutions other than art museums are also examined although the book primarily focuses on paintings other media created from the colonial period to the present are considered including material culture and craft the volume takes an inclusive approach to american art by featuring works created by a diverse group of artists from canonical to lesser known ones and provides new insights by highlighting the regional and the local books on art history are nearly always lavishly illustrated with quality colour reproductions of famous masterpieces yet this has not always been the case it was only in the eighteenth century that art books came to be illustrated with beautiful images picturing art history shows how the fundamentally new notion of the history of art as a visual history was responsible for this development in the age before photography paper collections of prints and drawings offered the only way to picture the artistic past for the first time illustrations became indispensable tools as the new belief grew that art works rather than artists were the measure of the artistic past internationally renowned art scholars such as bottari 1689 1775 winckelmann 1717 1768 and d'agincourt 1730 1814 collected reproductions in the form of prints and drawings triggering discussions of the nature of illustrations as representations of art classification of reproductions to demonstrate trends in art history and the relationship between image and text in the art literature with the help of illustrations art history became an extraordinary visual experience vital to the understanding of the history of art
