psychology is the science of the mind it aims to find out all about the mind the whole story as to the scope and contents of the story i have aimed to include enough statement of methods and results in each of the great departments of psychological research to give the reader an intelligent idea of what is being done and to whet his appetite for more detailed information in the choice of materials i have relied frankly on my own experience and in debatable matters given my own opinions this gives greater reality to the several topics besides making it possible by this general statement at once to acknowledge it and also to avoid discussion and citation of authorities in the text at the same time in the exposition of general principles i have endeavoured to keep well within the accepted truth and terminology of psychology it will be remarked that in several passages the evolution theory is adopted in its application to the mind i add in a concluding section on literature some references to various books in english classified under the headings of the chapters of the text psycinfo database record c 2006 apa all rights reserved excerpt from the story of the mind in this little book i have endeavoured to maintain the simplicity which is the ideal of this series it is more difficult however to be simple in a topic which even in its illustrations demands of the reader more or less facility in the exploration of his own mind i am persuaded that the attempt to make the matter of psychology more elementary than is here done would only result in making it untrue and so in defeating its own object in preparing the book i have secured the right and welcomed the opportunity to include certain more popular passages from earlier books and articles it is necessary to say this for some people are loath to see a man repeat himself when one has once said a thing however about as well as he can say it there is no good reason that he should be forced into the pretence of saying something different simply to avoid using the same form of words a second time the question of course is as to whether he should not then resign himself to keeping still and letting others do the further speaking there is much to be said for such a course about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works an accessible and engaging account of the mind and its connection to the brain the mind encompasses everything we experience and these experiences are created by the brain often without our awareness experience is private we can't know the minds of others but we also don't know what is happening in our own minds in this book e. Bruce Goldstein offers an accessible and engaging account of the mind and its connection to the brain he takes as his starting point two central questions what is the mind and what is consciousness and leads readers through topics that range from conceptions of the mind in popular culture to the wiring system of the brain throughout he draws on the latest research explaining its significance and relevance thoughts can create worlds every time you dream you make worlds out of your own thoughts you do not make dreamworlds out of atoms out of matter how many people grasp the significance of this fact a dream in and of itself proves that a mind can create what convincingly passes as a material world even though the dreamworld emphatically isn't material but is made of thoughts produced by the mind of the dreamer why don't we indulge in the boldest of thoughts if one mind can build a dreamworld out of its own thoughts what would happen if all minds dreamt together what world might they create with their united effort with their thoughts pulled together and operating as one in fact they would build the very world we are living in right now this is a universe of thought and nothing but mind matters this book is a prolonged effort to establish a distinction between what is called mind and what is called matter nothing is more simple than to realise this distinction when you do not go deeply into it nothing is more difficult when you analyse it a little at first sight it seems impossible to confuse things so far apart as a thought and a block of stone but on reflection this great contrast vanishes and other differences have to be sought which are less apparent and of which one has not hitherto dreamed the reader will find in this book 1 a sketch of an explanation of the connection of mind and body 2 a proposal based thereon for a settlement of the controversy between the parallelists and the interactionists 1 the explanation of the connection of mind and body is not in substance new it is that which is implied in the panpsychism of fechner and clifford brief expositions of it have been given by paulsen in his einleitung in die philosophie indeed to paulsen i owe my first acquaintance with it and more recently by stout in the chapter body and mind of his manual what specially characterizes my treatment of the matter is the detailed working out of the conception in terms of the hypothesis of mental causality i have also set forth somewhat elaborately the scientific and metaphysical premises on which it rests 2 a further merit of the explanation is that it enables us to settle the controversy between the interactionists and the parallelists in a way satisfactory to both parties parallelism is commonly supposed to deny the efficiency of mind and this is felt to be the great objection to it the proposition that so far from denying efficiency parallelism involves and implies it may even seem to the reader a contradiction in terms yet this is a proposition which the panpsychist theory permits us to justify in his article are we automata in mind for 1879 vol iv pp 1 22 professor james made the prediction that if the automaton theory should ever prove to be the truth it would be in a translated form in which our common sense belief in the efficiency of mind would be recognized as essentially accurate in dr stout s theory and mine this prophecy finds its fulfillment preface psycinfo database record c 2008 apa all rights reserved mind and body by william walker atkinson mind and body mental states and physical conditions to the mind of those who have contented themselves with merely the superficial aspects of things these two things mind and body and mental states and physical conditions seem to be as far apart as the two poles seem to be opposites and contradictories impossible of reconciliation but to those who have penetrated beneath the surface of things these two apparent opposites are seen to be so closely related and inter related so blended and mingled together in manifestation that it is practically impossible to scientifically determine where the one leaves off and the other begins and so constant and close is their mutual action and reaction that it often becomes impossible to state positively which is the cause and which the effect in the first place science now informs us that in all living substance from cell to mammoth there is and must be mind there can be no life without mind mind indeed is held to be the very livingness of life the greater the degree of manifestation of mind the higher the degree of life moreover the new psychology informs us that upon the activities of the subconscious mind depend all the processes of physical life that the subconscious mind is the essence of what was formerly called the vital force and is embodied in every cell cell group or organ of the body and that this subconscious mind is amenable to suggestion good and evil from the conscious mind of its owner as well as from outside when the subject of the influence of mental states upon physical conditions is studied one sees that the physical condition is merely the reflection of the mental state and the problem seems to be solved the mystery of health and disease solved but in this as in everything else there is seen to be an opposing phase the other side of the shield let us look at the other side of the question just as we find that wherever there is living substance there is mind so do we find that we are unable to intelligently consider mind unless as embodied in living substance the idea of mind independent of its substantial embodiment becomes a mere abstraction impossible of mental imaging something like color independent of the colored substance or light without the illuminated substance and just as we find that mental states influence physical conditions so do we find that physical conditions influence mental states and so the problem of life health and disease once more loses its simplicity and the mystery again deepens the deeper we dig into the subject the more do we become impressed with the idea of the universal principle of action and reaction so apparent in all phenomena the mind acts upon the body the body reacts upon the mind cause and effect become confused the reasoning becomes circular like a ring it has no beginning no end its beginning may be any place we may prefer its ending likewise the only reconciliation is to be found in the fundamental working hypothesis which holds that both mind and body both mental states and physical conditions are the two aspects of something greater than either the opposing poles of the same reality the radical materialist asserts that the body is the only reality and that mind is merely its by product the mentalist asserts that the mind is the only reality and that the body is merely its grosser form of manifestation the unprejudiced philosopher is apt to stand aside and say you are both right yet both wrong each is stating the truth but only the half truth with the working hypothesis that mind and body are but varying aspects of the truth that mind is the inner essence of the body and body the outward manifestation of the mind we find ourselves on safe ground
