Meeting the Need for Child Care

1988

what do babies and young children really need this impassioned dialogue cuts through all the theories platitudes and controversies that surround parenting advice to define what every child must have in the first years of life the authors both famed advocates for children lay out the seven irreducible needs of any child in any society and confront such thorny questions as how much time do children need one on one with a parent what is the effect of shifting caregivers of custody arrangements why are we knowingly letting children fail in school nothing is off limits even such an issue as whether every child needs or deserves to be a wanted child this short hard hitting book the fruit of decades of experience and caring sounds a wake up call for parents teachers judges social workers policy makers anyone who cares about the welfare of children

Additional Educational Needs

this book addresses a topic that has received surprisingly little attention to date the health and social needs of young adults with physical disabilities following an extensive review of the contemporary literature on the subject the authors report an in depth study on a large sample of physically disabled 18 to 25 year olds living in two survey areas one urban and one semirural the study which included pediatric examinations and interviews by a social psychologist found that a large proportion of subjects face social and medical problems for instance they have serious health needs that are not being met by the statutory services they left school with less than adequate skills to enable them to lead an independent adult life they are without a daytime occupation or attend day centers that are described as unstimulating places they do not receive all the financial benefits to which they are entitled they are isolated from their peers and lack the social skills to interact with others in a positive and successful way parents and guardians were also found to receive little physical or emotional support these findings underline the need for a better system of providing and coordinating services for this client group and the authors call for the formation within each local health authority area of an adult disability service that would have a clinical and planning role in terms of health care and that would act as a linchpin in the coordination of health educational social and voluntary services although this work relates specifically to service provision in the united kingdom it is felt that the conclusions and recommendations are also broadly applicable to the situation in other countries originally published in 1968 the study described in this title began in a very small way in late 1960 at that time some oxfordshire county councillors and children s department officials were very conscious that the number of children in care in the county was high in comparison with the national average this meant that expenditure was also high the county s position however was not unique oxford city was in a similar position but other neighbours did not appear to have the same problem a small research project was launched to investigate and it soon became apparent that there was a large and complex problem to be solved the problem was of striking persistent and puzzling variations in the proportion of children in care in the different local authority children s departments of england and wales this seemed to warrant a larger investigation on a country wide basis and this book outlines the findings of that project many of us long to experience the fullness of god and his purpose for our lives not a whole lot of us ever do the reason is that we have departed in some significant ways from the biblical view of christian life and growth the new testament highlights the communal missional and eschatological aspects of our walk with god we grow in our faith as individual christians to the degree that we are a deeply rooted relationally in a local church community that is b passionately playing its part in god s grand story of creation fall redemption and restoration and c intently anticipating the summing of all things in christ when jesus returns in recent decades american evangelicals have traded away community outreach and the bible s teaching about eternity future for the pursuit of individual religious experience in the here and now why we need the church to become more like jesus traces this departure from biblical christianity through recent decades of popular evangelical trends and reminds us that faith centered on community mission and the story line of scripture remains the key to the spiritual formation of the individual christian this book provides a historical inquiry into the quantification of needs in humanitarian assistance needs are increasingly seen as the lowest common denominator of humanity standard definitions of basic needs however set a minimalist version of humanity both in the sense that they are narrow in what they compare and that they set a low bar for satisfaction the book argues that we cannot understand humanitarian governance if we do not understand how humanitarian agencies made human suffering commensurable across borders in the first place the book identifies four basic elements of needs as a concept as a system of classification and triage as a material apparatus and as a set of standards drawing on a range of archival sources including the united nations refugee agency unhrc médecins sans frontières msf and the sphere project the book traces the concept of needs from its emergence in the 1960s right through to the present day and united nations secretary general ban ki moon s call for evidence based humanitarianism finally the book assesses how the international governmentality of needs has played out in a recent humanitarian crisis drawing on field research on central african refugees in the cameroonian borderland in 2014 2016 this important historical inquiry into the universal nature of human suffering will be an important read for humanitarian researchers and practitioners as well as readers with an interest in international history and development
