Extreme Environment

2012-09-05

extreme environment promises to provoke fresh and spirited debate about the modern environmental movement and the many ways in which environmentalism media economics public policy and the politics of liberty intersect in order to reduce poverty and continue to raise living standards requires a sensible balanced approach to a healthy productive environment no country but especially not those in the developing world can afford to be manipulated by the self interested moralising and alarmism perpetrated by some special interest groups exaggeration by environmentalists many journalists and even some scientists causes undue fear and anxiety among those who don t already dismiss the green lobby for crying wolf worse misinformation affects regulation and policymaking in ways that actively harm developing economies starting with well researched work questioning the claims of opponents to shale gas drilling or fracking ivo vegter argues that public opinion and policy ought to be informed by accurate data and reasoned argument using a wide range of examples from nuclear accidents and oil spills to food additives and agricultural chemicals he demonstrates why we should be as sceptical of the emotive rhetoric of environmentalists which just as often turns out to be alarmist or even false as we are of corporate spin globally relevant but offering a unique perspective from a developing country south africa this book is a must read for every thinking person who cares about the world we live in

in what ways can or should art engage with its social context authors readers and critics have been preoccupied with this question since the dawn of modern literature in korea advocates of social engagement have typically focused on realist texts seeing such works as best suited to represent injustices and inequalities by describing them as if they were before our very eyes christopher p hanscom questions this understanding of political art by examining four figures central to recent korean fiction film and public discourse the migrant laborer the witness to or survivor of state violence the refugee and the socially excluded urban precariat instead of making these marginalized figures intelligible to common sense this book reveals the capacity of art to address the impossible speech of those who are not asked expected or allowed to put forward their thoughts yet who in so doing expand the limits of the possible impossible speech proposes a new approach to literature and film that foregrounds ostensibly nonpolitical or nonsensical moments challenging assumptions about the relationship between politics and art that locate the politics of the work in the representation of content understood in advance as being political recasting the political as a struggle over the possibility or impossibility of speech itself this book finds the politics of a work of art in its power to confront the boundaries of what is sayable bringing together fourteen original essays this collection opens up new perspectives on the architectural history of the nineteenth century by examining the buildings of the period through the lens of experience with a focus on the experience of the ordinary building user rather than simply on the intentions of the designer the book shows that new and important insights can be brought to our understanding of victorian architecture the chapters present a range of ideas and new research some examining individual building case studies from grand hotels and clubhouses in new york to the parliament buildings of westminster and others exploring conceptual questions about the nature of architectural experience whether sensory or otherwise yet they share the premise that the idea of the experience of architecture took on a new and particular significance with the rise of industrial modernity and they examine what contemporary people both architects and non architects understood by this idea the insights in this volume extend beyond the study of victorian architecture together they suggest how experience might be used as a framework to produce a more convincingly historical account of the artefacts of architectural history
